

2006 Summer Institute for Teachers

Daily Life and Diversity in 18th Century Philadelphia

Independence National Historical Park

A SUMMER INSTITUTE FOR TEACHERS OF GRADES 4-8

Held in Philadelphia at Independence National Historical Park
July 17 - 21, 2006

Get ready to explore Daily Life and Diversity in 18th Century Philadelphia by participating in this summer's Independence Park Institute teachers' workshop!

In July 2006, Independence National Historical Park will host a one-week workshop that will enable 4th-8th grade teachers to understand daily life and diversity in 18th century Philadelphia. Topics covered will include archeology, Benjamin Franklin, yellow fever, religion, and Philadelphia as the Capital of the United States. This institute will prepare teachers to use historic sites to enhance their teaching and to inspire students with on-site and virtual programs that will make history come alive in the classroom and beyond.

This summer institute is limited to twenty participants. All participants will receive:

- A $300.00 stipend
- Books and other teaching resource materials on Daily Life and Diversity in 18th Century Philadelphia
- Field trips to sites in Independence National Historical Park and the historic area
- Continuing education credits for Pennsylvania (Act 48) and New Jersey teachers

For applications and detailed information on institute programs, visit the Education Programs page at www.nps.gov/inde or www.independenceparkinstitute.com. Applications must be postmarked by March 31, 2006. Questions?
